Evaluation Criteria:

Please give each evaluation item a numeric rating on a 5-point scale, along with a thorough explanation for each point rating.

Questions	Rating Result [Poor] 1-5 [Excellent]
1. The title is clear and it is adequate to the content of the article.	5
The chosen topic is very adequate and of social interest, as the phenomenon of divorce is taking on great proportions in the Albanian society, the more the consequences it leaves on the children are even greater. The title given in this article is clear, accurate and stands in synthesis with its content.

2. The abstract clearly presents objects, methods and results.	5
The abstract is clearly expressed and is precisely according to certain piquetes, giving in it the objectives, which follow the steps of the study in full accordance with the purpose given by the author. Further in the abstract is given the methodology of the study based on scientific data derived from both the theoretical and the study point of view, realized by the author through the survey and questionnaires in the field, in a certain segment of the study. Definitely in the abstract are mentioned the findings and results or conclusions which naturally flow from the study.
3. There are few grammatical errors and spelling mistakes in this article.	5
What I noticed while reading the article was exactly the fluency of the author's thought using short and accurate sentences, easily understood and without mistakes, for which I want to congratulate her.
4. The study methods are explained clearly.	5
The use of the methodology of the study is timely, based quite well on the theoretical concepts of well-known authors in the field of sociology and psychology, also by the survey conducted by the authors through questionnaires on a well-defined sample of 13-18 year old children in some public schools in Tirana, Albania regarding the level of happiness of children of this age who come from families with divorced parents by comparing this level of happiness before and after the divorce of their parents, comparing some variables that affect the level of their happiness, financial income in the family, their economic situation, parental support to children, their impact on the education of children, their given or missing affection in children, etc., variables which have led the author to the right results.
5. The results are clear and do not contain errors.	5
Exactly, as a result of the scientific methodology used, the author has drawn some conclusions from the study made in the form of research results and findings, which have to do with social awareness and the improvement of some such variables in the family that often become a source of family disputes and that make it possible for them to often end in divorce. They are also related to the emphasis that proper state policies and non-profit social organizations should have to help these families.
6. The conclusions or summary are accurate and supported by the content.	5
The conclusions drawn are the product of the study, and very valuable for minimizing the problems arising in children with divorced parents, in order to invest in a strong society for the future.
7. The references are comprehensive and appropriate.	5
I see in the paper that an extensive time literature of well-known authors in the field has been used, which is quite appropriate for the topic addressed in this article.
