Comments and Suggestions to the Author(s):

The theme addressed in this study is topical in a developing country such as Benin, where food insecurity reigns. Thus, this study is welcome to allow actors to improve their fish smoking practices in order to guarantee a good quality finished product for the benefit of consumers. The results obtained allowed the achievement of the objectives set as described in the manuscript. The latter contains some minor mistakes that deserve to be corrected for the improvement of the document. However, the perspectives announced at the end of the study must be pursued to contribute more to the food security of the Beninese population.

Comments and Suggestions to the Editors Only:

We sincerely thank the editors for involving us in the review of this manuscript. However, we remain available for possible new manuscripts to be evaluated in order to further contribute to the evolution of science.

Long live scientific collaboration!
